GOODWIN OFFERS BILLS TO CURB 'PAROLE EVIL'

FLAS JAIL 'DELIVERY' PAROLE LAW

Registrar Says Many Are Arrested, but Few Serve Time

Following up his appeal to the Legislature to curb the malleable power of district attorneys and restrict the discretionary power of the courts, Registrar Frank A. Goodwin today filed two additional bills at the State House to limit paroles and stays of execution.

Goodwin stated that "the laws governing paroles, like all other criminal laws, have been expanded and stretched to cover the entire field so that within the past four or five years we have had a veritable jail delivery."

The stay of execution power has been so abused, he declared, that hundreds of cases are pending for sentences, some of which "will probably never be served."

ARREST MANY, JAIL FEW.
"According to figures given by the State Prison, of the 1934-35 term, there were only 4,323 prisoners in all the prisons and jails in Massachusetts as compared with 6,577 in 1934, ten years before," said Goodwin.

"These extraordinary figures become still more startling in the light of the number of arrests for crimes other than drunkenness given by Mr. Bates in the same report."

In 1934, there were 11,129 arrests for all kinds of offenses other than drunkenness, while in 1914 there were only 4,111 arrests. "No wonder we have a crime wave."

In 1934, there were 6,318 arrests for drunkenness and this makes a total of 17,447 arrests for the police for all kinds of offenses. Yet we have only 4,323 in jail at the end of the year."

The Goodwin amendments to the parole law would:

1—Prevent the parole of a prisoner for minor offenses who had been previously paroled within a period of six years.

CALAS LAWS REDUCED.
2—Make ineligible for a parole from any prison, except the Massachusetts Reformatory, the Reformatory for Women and the State Farm, anyone who had been sentenced previously to a prison term.

3—Wipe out the authority of the Parole Board to release prisoners committed to State Prison after they had completed two-thirds of their sentence and require every prisoner to serve at least the minimum sentence.

4—Prevent the parole, by a probation officer with the consent of the district judge and the county commissioners, or a district attorney, of a prisoner from county institutions, who had previously been sentenced to a term of four months or more.

Goodwin characterized the law which now lets the parole board release prisoners of state prison after they have served two-thirds of their minimum sentence as "ridiculous."

"For instance," he continued, "if a man is sentenced for four to six years, he is released after he has served two-thirds of his sentence, figures that look like 10 to 12 years in the papers when the judge gives them. It means that the prisoner may get out in eight years."

"This amendment is intended to wipe out that provision and make every prisoner stay in at least his minimum sentence."

MANY 'PENDING'
The same legislation on the stay of execution, Goodwin said: "At present, after a man has been convicted, if the district attorney does not see fit to present the prisoner before the court for disposition, there need be no disposition. There are hundreds of cases of all kinds under the heading 'pending for sentence.' Some of them will probably never be presented."

"There are many other cases where a man is convicted and rather than have the particular judge who set through the case sentence the man, he is not presented for sentence until some later period and is out on bail in the meantime."

"This amendment would make it necessary, where no exceptions have been allowed and no appeal taken, for sentence to be imposed within seven days from the date of conviction, except upon a sworn statement filed by the judge that, in his opinion, the person sentenced is not fit physically to be imprisoned."

FENCING VENUS FOUND GUILTY OF 'LIFTING'

Mrs. Eleanor Baldwin Cass, noted swordswoman and fancy dancer and instructor of Boston and Brookline society girls in these arts, was found guilty of shoplifting in Municipal Court today.

She was charged by detectives employed by a downtown department store with pocketing a $15 wrist watch.

They followed her to the store and then called special officers Lynch and Breakman of the Milk street division, and she was arrested.

At the station house Mrs. Cass indignantly protested her innocence, identified herself, and was bailed.

She claimed innocence despite the fact that she had the watch in her hand.

Today in court, however, she changed her story before Judge Cohen. She admitted stealing the watch, she said that she wanted it sent, impeded by some urge she couldn't explain, she took it. Then she wished to return it, but lacked the money.

Judge Cohen lectured her for her act and then placed the case on file. Mrs. Cass is required to be the best woman fence in the world, and number among her pupils some of the leaders of the country's social elite.

WEEKLY 'NIGHT FOR MOTHER' IS URGED

A Mother's night once a week. This is the idea of Miss Grace Thornton of No. 244 Haver street, East Boston, who believes that there should be set aside one night of each week in which mothers the country over could follow their own desires and pleasures under the escort of their own children or some one else's.

Miss Thornton says: "My idea is to set aside one night each week. Wednesday preferred, as this is in the middle of the week, and the best suited. On the night either daughter or son set aside their own joys and pleasures and sit toward the entertainment of mother."

"Pick her up out of her day of drudgery before the kitchen range and take into the life and glory of the world. Let her hear the music of her favorite dance orchestra, even she might be tempted to try the Charleston, or else take her to the best show in town."

"Then take her to a little cozy restaurant, the one that you like so well yourself, and then watch her eyes as she orders a cup of tea and perhaps a sandwich. You ignore her order and tell the waiter to bring on her favorite dishes. Watch her eye sparkle as she says, 'Oh, you should not have ordered that—look, it costs $1 a plate.'"

"Maybe you are away from home. If so write a good long letter home and write your mother a little present. Or, if she has been called to heaven, take out some other poor mother who has lost her home or one who was not fortunate enough to be where her children are."

'Sun Dog' Comes Out for 0-0 in Boston

The rare spectacle of a "sun dog" or brilliant rainbow halo around the sun attracted thousands in Greater Boston today. It was first observable about 5 o'clock and lasted about half an hour.

Because the "sun dog" is not one of the phenomena that can be predicted it was studied in wonderment. According to experts, the circles of brilliant colors are caused by reflection of the sun's rays by the crystals of minute snow.

It has nothing to do with our weather, for the local bureau reported today that the present cold snap is temporary. Fair weather was forecast for tonight and Thursday.

COLLEGE MUST INSTALL MORE FIRE ESCAPES
The City of Boston today obtained an injunction from Judge Loomis in Superior Court against the College of Physicians and Surgeons at No. 517 Shawmut avenue, South End, closing the college on January 10 if by that time additional means for escape in case of fire are not provided.

The city asked that the college be closed because it failed to comply with an order last January that it provide more exits and fire escapes.

TINKHAM CALLS FOR PROTEST ON WORLD COURT

Mr. Tinkham, with 500 years of Americanism behind him, an intimate of the late Senator Lodge and author of the bill now pending in Congress for a "National Institution" to take the place of the flat-footed state-department that Massachusetts is opposed to the Court.

CALLS ON PEOPLE TO AID

In this famous issue with President Coolidge and Chairman Wheeler, he makes it plain that he is not swayed by personal considerations, but solely by the public good, and is confident the United States.

He says it is even greater than in 1919. He calls upon the people of New England to rally as they did behind Senator Lodge in the other fight, and predicts that the uprising will take place.

As a result of this appeal, New England States, experts appear to foresee, again may take the lead in the fight to keep the country out of the European political family.

UPRISING PREDICTED

The Tinkham appeal published in another column is bound to stir political organizations throughout New England, particularly his plain inference that President Coolidge is not representing the majority sentiment of the house State in passing the Senate to adjourn to the Court.

The more enthusiastic opponents of the Court already hear the old Liberty bell ringing again and "red the pull" of the many patriotic States with which the old Bay State abounds.

Just what form the uprising will take has not yet been indicated, although it seems to be the central idea that the coming meetings should be devoted to tell the world where New England stands.

NEVISIAN ARRIVES

WITH NEW MESSAGE

Senator Nevisian brought the Liberty line Nevisian from today after a hard voyage from Antwerp. His dramatic message provided that he stop at Lord for additional cargo for Boston, Baltimore and Norfolk. In the message to London he says he was carried away by the ship and was violently carried away by the ship and was violently carried away by the ship.

What are YOU going to do about it? Will you speak so that Congress will hear as plainly as did George III. the voice of patriots now sleeping in Boston's hallowed ground?

Does the Spirit of '76 still live? Is the virile patriotism of the Boston Tea Party merely a hazy memory, or is it a living force able still to rouse the fighting spirit against foreign dominations?

What ARE you going to do? Answer!!

THEY ARE LOYAL TO PROUD GAELIC NAME

Do they are Callaghans! Be recreant to tradition of a patronym descended from Irish kings! Not on your life. These three Callaghans sons, Miriam, aged 11, Charles, who boasts of 13 years of manliness and Madeline, aged 9, boast of it as their proudest inheritance and say shame on all who would renounce so precious a birthright.

CALL TO PATRIOTS

American foreign policy by this agent of the League of Nations. American tradition has approved of the United States entering only an international court representing directly the sovereign nations, a non-political court.

The Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations is a court which represents an intermediary, namely, the League of Nations, an alien, political and military mechanism.

Massachusetts is for American independence, complete and unimpaired; for no foreign entangling alliances, and for a robust and unfaltering policy of nationalism.

What are Massachusetts and New England going to do about this supreme issue? Answer!!

GEORGE H. TINKHAM.

CALLAGHAN'S SUGRUE KILLS SELF AS POLICE LOOK FOR HIM

Even if Alfred Gregory, late Albert Gregory Callaghan of Harvard, didn't like the grand old name of Callaghan, and dropped it for the wayside in order to facilitate his social and business progress, there are plenty of staunch old hearts and eager young ones, who are ready to stand foot and groom to the world their pride in Callaghan.

Mrs. Charles Callaghan, of No. 4 Sunnyside street, Jamaica Plain, the most charming young nation, declared in no uncertain terms that the former Harvard student ought to be ashamed of himself, if he wanted to abandon his name because of the least antecedent.

But it remained for the three children of the mother to express themselves, too. They are all three clever youngsters, good looking and typical representatives of a red-blooded race.

The kids thought that the best way for them to prove their pride in the name of Callaghan was to get down their sentiments in writing.

Whereupon Charles, the eldest, a lively lad of thirteen, took his style in hand, and inserted the united voice of the three old-fashioned Callaghans, interlarded with the words, "We are Callaghans and we are proud of it."

Of course his sisters, Miriam, 11, and Madeline, 9, were really the ones who dictated the phrasing of this little masterpiece, which they signed "We are Callaghans and we are proud of it."

So to it that to Alfred, or Albert, formerly of the Callaghan clan, and watch these youngsters, and learn something.

And then Joseph M. O'Callaghan, proprietor of a business at No. 17 Portland street, referred to in the change of name fever local newspaper to the Callaghan. Sure the Callaghans have an illustrious name across the water, and Callaghans have risen to great power, he explained to himself as he wrote.

At No. 32 Bowdoin street, City, Callaghan said, "The man who would change his name from that of Callaghan to anything else, would burn before he changed mine, he burned in the country."

and won his case before a jury. Sugrue's lawyer then requested the charge against him be not granted which required District Attorney Harding refused to agree to aid at the time of Sugrue's suicide the case was still pending.

IT'S A SAD TALE OF THE MERRY SEASON

Puzzling Friendship and $500 All Mixed Up With a Pair of John Does

Somerville—both in and out of Harvorchou, which is in Anti-conah County—alcohol Nova Noviana will run the gamut of a merry Christmas, but Wallace Leander will be least merry of them all, together with Leander's family.

Lighter in purse, but heavier in spirit, Leander told the police today a sad story of misunderstanding and a puzzling friendship that brought him a wicked clip on the shin, and two "friends" the possession of Wallace's $500 roll.

DOE & DOE LOCKED UP.
Both of the "friends" are now down on the police blotter as "John Does," but though their temporary names are twins, the pair are twins otherwise only in the left art of doerory robbery.

Wallace Leander was full of the Christmas spirit when he arrived at the North Station and purchased a ticket for Harvorchou. He was headed home for Christmas with the wife and two children.

As he stepped away from the ticket window he heard a voice cry "Ah, Wallace, come, come!"

MULLIGAN IN IT, TOO.
And so they fell to chatting, and the puzzling "friend" suggested that they had time before the train left to go to Adams square.

"Lafayette Mulligan is going to fly an airplane from there tonight," he said, "and it will be something to tell the folks about down home." But who should appear on the walk in Adams square but a third man, who, oddly enough, was a friend of the "friend."

Somewhere they were in a doorway then, matching dimes, and Wallace wasn't having such good luck.

No son from down East will take a looking standing up, so Wallace became tired when his small change and small bills had vanished and he dug down for the $500 roll he had stowed away.

Then came a fist against his chin—darkness, and when he awoke the "friends" and the money were gone.

HUNT N. Y. CHINATOWN FOR MISSING GIRL'S BODY
New York, Dec. 22 (N.Y.A.)—A campaign to clean up Chinatown was predicted today when detectives, searching for the body of 15-year-old Julia Vetterlin, missing since Dec. 16, and for her Chinese admirer, Sing Poo, discovered more than 100 white girls living in Chinatown in that part of New York's underworld.

Many have been reported missing. None apparently wanted to return to their homes.

The police have found no trace of Julia or of Sing Poo.

BRICKLAYER'S DIGNITY JUST A MATTER OF 5 SECONDS

London, Dec. 22 (A.P.)—Dignity marked the settlement today of the walkout of forty bricklayers who went on "dignity strike" last week because Almerman Edward Price of Lambeth Borough said it took them one minute and twelve seconds to lay a single brick.

LAWSON LOANS WERE MADE ON FOGG BANKS

Trustee of the Estate Tells of Them at Hearing Today in Brockton Court

Brockton—The admission that a great many of the loans obtained by the trustee of the Thomas W. Lawson estate, to effect land developments at Dreamwood, were made through banks and organizations of which he was a director, were made today by Thomas W. Fogg, one of the trustees, at the hearing of the petition for allowance of the trustee's accounts in Plymouth County Probate Court.

Arnold and Estelle Lawson, some of the late owner's heirs, are contesting the petition, on the grounds that the estate, which has shrunk from $100,000, after the sale of Dreamwood, to $162,000, has had excessive expenditures made against it.

Under cross-examination by Attorney Everett, counsel for the heirs, Fogg said that a loan of $10,000, secured by the first two houses on the development, was placed with the Rockland Trust Company, of which he is a director.

FOGG TELLS OF LOANS.
On January 15, 1924, he admitted a loan of $10,000 was placed by Fogg's wife and later taken over by the Washington Trust estate, of which he was a trustee.

In February, 1924, a loan of $25,000 was placed with the estate of Joseph E. French, of which Fogg is also a trustee. In April 3, 1924, a loan of $10,000 was placed with Mrs. Fogg, but after close questioning by Attorney Everett, Fogg admitted that it was his money.

A "letter credit" loan of $10,000 caused considerable trouble between himself and Fogg, but Fogg insisted the loan was not excessive, considering it covered a three-year period.

During the examination of Fogg, his attorney objected to the court asking Everett was abusing his witnesses. The court did not agree with the attorney and the questioning continued.

The two heirs are fighting the acceptance of the trustee's accounts. They claim that the loans placed by Fogg and William B. Burton, the other trustee, were made with a view to personal gain and hope to show by the testimony that loans were placed in such a way that excessive charges were made against the estate.

SANTA IS TAGGED FOR BREAKING PARKING LAW

Providence, Dec. 22 (A.P.)—Santa Claus was presented with a "yellow ticket" for violating a parking ordinance here. This was revealed today when a traffic officer was covering at police headquarters, looking up the address of an arriving motorist who gave his name to the trusting bluesman as "Kris Kringle."

Police today revealed that he was seven seconds off, and the bluesman have accepted this as an apology.

Some 250 carpenters, painters and other workmen forced to loaf and they were the victims of "humorous" antics who can't take a joke.

THOUSANDS TO ATTEND MASS AT MIDNIGHT

Special Services Planned in Catholic Churches; Band-
men to Play Carols

By JAMES WALSH.

Catholic churches throughout Greater Boston and in the archdiocese generally will celebrate the anniversary of the Nativity by attending solemn midnight masses tomorrow night and other masses and services during Christmas Day. Midnight masses this year will be celebrated in nearly all of the city and suburban churches, not only as an observance of Christmas, but because of the fact that it marks, also, the close of 1925.

LITTLE MERCHANTS TO SEE THIS

When the Boston Evening American newshykes go to the big Christmas show at the Metropolitan Christmas Day, they will see "Mannquin," the picture there this week. This is a scene from "Mannquin," Francis Hurst's $50,000 prize story, showing Tom Kennedy, in sweater, who is a famous trainer of fighters and a mailman at Culver City, Calif. The newshykes' show will start at 9 o'clock Christmas morning, and the boys will march to the theatre from the circulation rooms of the Boston Evening American.

POPE DEcriES EQUALITY OF RELIGIONS

Pius Deplores Lay Government That Puts Christianity on Same Level

Rome, Dec. 22 (A.P.)—Pope Pius today published an encyclical in which he introduces into the library a special festival of the Holy Father. The Holy Father recalls that the program of his pontificate is "the peace of Christ in the Kingdom of Christ." He enumerates recent events, including various questions, and believes it appropriate to close Holy Year by establishing a special festival for Christ's Kingdom, for Jesus is to be considered as all Catholic, and a remedy kindness to present evils.

THE FESTIVIT DATE.

The encyclical decries the efforts of the present system by which governments are entrusted to the lay and in which the Christian religion is placed on the same level as all others and required to submit to the civil powers. The Pontiff expresses the hope that these evils will be remedied by solemnly recalling each year throughout the world the Kingdom of Christ, with the hope of having it recognized by international meetings and parliaments.

The Pope sets the last Sunday in October for the festivity of the Kingdom of Christ. On that day a world-wide formula will be read in all churches concerning "marking to the heart of Jesus." This year the formula will be read on December 21 on the occasion of the session to be held by the Pope in St. Peter's.

RUNYON SAYS

Sports Writers Fans They Love Football. Will Argue It Any Day. Have Sectional Pride.

By DAMON RUNYON

WHAT sport, think you, is the favorite sport of sports writers? I have made up the question and have asked it of a large number of sports writers. The answer is: Football.

I believe that football is the favorite sport of sports writers because it is the only sport that is so widely followed by the general public.

I have worked with scores of sports writers and have found that they all love football. They love it because it is so exciting and so full of action.

I have found that sports writers love football because it is the only sport that is so widely followed by the general public.
